As your City Councilmember I led the fight to resist high density multi-unit housing development in Sausalito. I alerted residents to the proposals to change the character of their neighborhoods, such as replacing our markets and shops with high density housing in targeted commercial districts.

In Sacramento, I persuaded the state to consider counting live-aboards towards Sausalito's state-mandated housing quota, and I championed the use of second units and other minimal impact solutions over high density new construction.

The new Housing Element supported by this council's majority risks high density and traffic congestion. I support an Environmental Impact Report regarding the new Housing Element's cumulative impact on Sausalito's fragile ecosystem.

I believe Sausalito must create sustainable pensions rather than raise taxes, mortgage MLK, or develop the Marinship with traffic issues on Bridgeway Avenue.

I seek reelection to continue the fight to preserve our environment and Sausalito's small town character.

I ask for your vote. www.LindaForSausalito.com
