Introduction

In July, 2009 the City conducted an anonymous survey of Sausalito liveaboards. The survey sought to identify why people choose to live on their boats, what type of income they make and how much rent they pay, and what kind of improvements they would like to see at their marina. The 42 completed surveys revealed useful information about liveaboards. Sausalito has a well-established and vibrant boating culture that plays an important role in shaping the character of the community. There are eight harbors and Yacht Clubs in the city that are home to hundreds of vessels. The boat-owners and users have created a close-knit community of maritime enthusiasts. Many boaters have even chosen to make their boats their homes. Sausalito zoning code allows for 10% of berths to be used for housing, and calls for half of those to be available to low and moderate income residents. However, low and moderate income live-aboards are currently not counted towards Sausalito's affordable housing quota.

For many of these live-aboards, living on a boat is a life-long dream. They choose to live on board for the sense of community and to be closer to nature. There are also those who chose to live aboard because it is significantly less expensive than living on land. In a recent survey, the median income reported by live-aboards was around $42,500. The median cost of a berth (rent paid to the harbor) for those the city surveyed was $657.50, which is significantly below the market rate for a one-bedroom apartment in Sausalito. Live-aboards also show an overwhelming preference for living on a boat over living on land. When asked whether they would prefer to spend their money on a boat or an apartment, 94% expressed a preference for living on board.

Contrary to what might be expected, live-aboards are generally not transient. Despite having month to month leases and being unsure of their legal status, live-aboards tend to stay on their boats for extended periods of time. The average tenure of live-aboards surveyed was over 10 years, and 73% have been living on their boats for at least the last 5 years. This data suggests that the majority of live-aboards consider themselves permanent residents of their boats.

[Insert additional justification as to why liveaboards should count as housing units]

41	Lifestyle, quiet	Have to keep the boat clean	B @d	Yes	Yes
42	It's peaceful and pretty most of the time	Rough in winter, using restroom facilities, isolated from neighborhoods	A D	Not Sure	Yes	If it is a requirement	laundry machines, shower, restroom facilities, pumpout stations

Questions 29-35
Survey Number	Which amenities do you use?	Which amenities would you like the marina to add?	Which amenities does your boat have?	How often do you use your boat for recreation boating?	What type of maintenance issues do you have regarding living on your boat?	How often do you haul you boat out to replace the bottom paint?	Would you like to live in a marina with more or fewer live-aboards?
1	parking & bathrooms	laundry & more bathrooms	head, shower, stove, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio	couple of times/ year	periodic haul outs for routine maintenance, regular mechanical service, rain proofing	3 years	doesn't matter either way
2	clean restrooms	none	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	1-2 times per week	replacing zincs	2 years	no more. most liveaboard marines seem messier. it would feel crowded with more than there are now
3	bathroom; shower	washer, dryer	stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, television, radio, beds, internet	rarely	none	2-3 years	The same. It's small and we're a great little community.
4	not offered except shower/bathrooms	laundry	head, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	used to a lot, but now only to live on	none		I like the community that seems to develop on each dock. Know folks on the other docks, but close to my neighbors.

What type of maintenance issues do you have regarding living on your boat?	How often do you haul you boat out to replace the bottom paint?	Would you like to live in a marina with more or fewer live-aboards?
5		laundry, community space, more storage, additional bathrooms	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, beds	Never	Not clear what this is asking- there's always regular maintenance, repairs, upkeep, improvements.	I plan to have it this summer.	I wouldn't mind having more live-aboards. I enjoy the intimate community, and it offers people an affordable way to live in Sausalito.
6	living here!!	One more bathroom for the people who have to use them daily.	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, T.V (for movie use only)	we do not use the paddleboat- but hopefully in the future we will use the trmaran to go out only infrequently- (we are more live aboard thand recreational users of the boats)	boats are like houses, they have to be taken care of,- painted	every 5 to 7 years- and we use a local diver to to it every year.	I like the way the marina is now- definitely not less. What we have now is good for the parking an bathroom use- for those who need it, there are currently 2 bathrooms w/ showers.
7			head, stove, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, beds			3 years	Fine as is

8	Shower		head, shower, stove, refrigerator, potable water, television, beds	15 X year	0	2 year	more, community
9	all	area for community BBQ and new bike racks	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	3+ times/month	everything is always in the process of breaking. Just a fact!	once/ annual	I feel the 10% limit is perfect. The people who are here make the effort to live aboard, have boating knowledge and are good neighbors. I feel that increasing the % would bring in people who's primary interest does not necessarily coincide w/ boating (i.e. lowering the cost of their living).
10			head, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	every week	rigging, painting	every 2 years

What type of maintenance issues do you have regarding living on your boat?	How often do you haul you boat out to replace the bottom paint?	Would you like to live in a marina with more or fewer live-aboards?
11	parking	improve parking - finish construction and start maintenance of docks etc. - provide washers/dryers - that would be great	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	Never	I haul out every three years to the boat yard - diver's inspection every 3 months	3 years	The number of live-aboards is fine - that is not the question. The question should be: what needs to be done/provided for a large number of live-aboards: such as improve parking, more bathrooms, enforce rules (such as picking up after dogs) etc.
12	Restroom		stove, potable water, beds	occasionally	Haulouts	4-5 years	Fewer, I like my privacy
13	shower	enclosed refuse area pad	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, radio, beds	none	none	3 years	Less. Anything above 50% is overload for present facilities. shower, parking, dock traffic.

14		Community space w/ kitchen/ washer & dryer.	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds, heat, light	we are still working making it seaworthy- just completed new masts and rigging. We both have completed sail training and enjoyed sailing on charter cruises in the Caribbean and Greece.	So far very little. Caulking leaks/ cleaning etc.	2 years	We prefer not to be isolated
15	Parking, shower	Place to hang out. Cafe, Garden	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, radio, beds	I doesn't move too easily as it's a canal barge. Only goes out for haul outs.	Normal up keep; haul out, painting, engine, zinc, etc.	every 2 years	I feel it is a great amount now. No need to alter.
16	2 toilets/shower	more toilets/showers	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, beds	Never	rot, mold, leaks	every few years	The more the better, nice community! Help each other etc.

What type of maintenance issues do you have regarding living on your boat?	How often do you haul you boat out to replace the bottom paint?	Would you like to live in a marina with more or fewer live-aboards?
17	showers/re strooms	laundry facility, community room	head, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, computer, dining room table, futon	I do not use my boat for recreational boating as it is my home.	Upkeep of overall condition of boat by monthly washing. Caulking the seams + windows for winter, pumping out extra water that gets in during rainy season.	every 5 years	I like the marina just as it is. We have enough live-aboards, and it works. we have an awesome community just the way it is.
18	None	Hot tub/sauna, exercise room, lounge	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds, game system (xbox360)	As often as possible. 2-3 times a week when weather is agreeable. At least once of twice a month in winter.	Normal cleaning/polishing, yearly varnish work, waxing, etc. Replaced standing rigging last year.	every 2.5 years	More, has greater sense of community.
19	all	storage	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, radio, beds	2 times a month	Bottom cleaning, varnish, bottom paint, pump-out	every 2 years	More, because of the security.

What type of maintenance issues do you have regarding living on your boat?	How often do you haul you boat out to replace the bottom paint?	Would you like to live in a marina with more or fewer live-aboards?
20	Parking	Laundry	head, shower, stove, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, radio, beds, DSL	Once a year	Woodwork, painting, updating galley.	Every 2 years	It depends on facilities- more parking and slips would allow more live-aboards.
21	Shower/toilet/water/electric(pay extra)/phone hookup, storage	I'd like them to tear down the warehouse, repair docks and road (locust st.)	stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, radio, beds	5 X per year	Always issues: clean boat bottom, zincs, repairs are constant on a boat, canvass, engine, pumps changed, etc.	Not often enough	Doesn't matter how many as long as the marina can sustain them, i.e. sewer and parking especially!
22	restroom	Enclosed trash and recycling bins. Larger trash bins and recycling bins. Community room/ Additional restrooms/ Laundry facility/ storage	Head, shower, stove top, refrigerator, television, hot water, beds	Never	Groundskeeping, trash, landscaping, docks, lighting	every 4 years	Neither. More would be too much cars and foot traffic. Less would be lonely and boring.

What type of maintenance issues do you have regarding living on your boat?	How often do you haul you boat out to replace the bottom paint?	Would you like to live in a marina with more or fewer live-aboards?
27	parking, bathrooms, showers	laundramat-security keys for restroom	head, shower, stove, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, radio, beds, computer, bath tub, artwork, plants	never	leaks- damage from water and salt	every 5-6 years	Less- We are 99% live-aboard-it is crowded- people have room mates & sublet rooms- let friend shower- let friends park their cars- let friends tie up illegally
28	Scenery, parking, maintenance		head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	seldom		2 years	With nice boats, nice people, interesting, socially engaging, experienced, they take care of harbor
29	Parking. Restroom		head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	2-3 times per month	Normal exterior and interior cleaning, varnishing, engine maintenance	every 12-24 months as needed. Bottom cleaned and checked every 3 mos.	The fewer the better. I' a bit reclusive. Even though I have an active family and social life.

30	Many	N/A	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds, inverter battery backup, wine cellar, dry sauna	It is permanently moored, but I recreate on it as often as I can.	keeping the mooring up is all	Never, it is concrete	The current level is great. More would create some parking issues. Less would be lonely.
31	All	None	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, radio, beds	weekly	I do almost weekly maintenance whether I live aboard or not.	every 2-3 years.	More. It provides more community, security.
32	laundromat, restrooms	it's OK	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	10 X maybe	general upkeep	every other year	fewer. The place is overused.
33	hose, restroom, locker	grassy area	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	often, long range cruising once a year	same	every 2 years	Same. Enough for community and security, but not crowding out a good thing

Questions 29-35
Survey Number	Which amenities do you use?	Which amenities would you like the marina to add?	Which amenities does your boat have?	How often do you use your boat for recreation boating?	What type of maintenance issues do you have regarding living on your boat?	How often do you haul you boat out to replace the bottom paint?	Would you like to live in a marina with more or fewer live-aboards?
34	Safe morage, Clean showers and restrooms, a wonderful restaurant, and the best staff I have ever met.	A washer and dryer.	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	On average, about 4 times a year.	Nothing special.	Once every 3 years.	Less if better for privacy.
35	Shower and head	parking, bike racks, dock carts	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	once a month	General maintenance, paint, varnish, etc.	every 2 years	More. Adds to the community or like minded people

36	all of it except for bathrooms	The electric needs to be upgraded.	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	I don't take my boat out at all.	Zincs, windows maintained, decks have to be kept up, fixing leaks, rails, hauling out.	supposed to be every 2 years. It's been 3.5	We could have a few more. 10% isn't much and it's a good life. The only problem with having more live-aboards is that if they don't keep the boat up (can't afford to or whatever) they start to look real shabby.

37	N/A	Laundry rooms, lockers	head shower, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	Never	A lot of upkeep because of the natural elements.	Every 6 years	I always prefer less. Less noise, less traffic. Who doesn't prefer less? Crowding people together is a recipe for disaster no matter where you live. Even rats know not to reproduce when there's overcrowding. But a lot of people are looking for affordable housing-especially now. I wish we could get better leases instead of the month to month we have always had.

38	All	None	head, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, television, radio, beds	Never	Lots of painting & varnishing/ hauling out	Every 5 years	More. There used to be a lot more and the harbor has not allowed more as people have left. It was nicer with neighbors and friends in a real community.
39	I walk over a lot	Trees, they could daylight the stream and have plants and a place for gathering and bbqs as we used to have.	Stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, television, radio phone, answering machine, heater, cold water, cd player	I have a skiff and I row when it's not too windy.	fresh water rot-mahogany plywood	Many years go by in between, Bilge dry when it rains.	This is ok- it's quiet at night- I have friends, they are respectful of others, no loud electronics, we help each other and there's a good level of trust. not much thieving here (except for Bayside- since he hired felons and they ripped him off.

40	toilets, shower	Laundry, storage, parking, legal construction.	head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, radio, beds	3-5 X month	No more than normal for this vessel- a little extra cleaning	2-3 years	Yes and no, many liveaboards area poor boaters so the general atmosphere is less sea-worthy, i.e. pets, potted plants etc. Liveaboards provide security for each other and their boats
41		Cable	Head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, potable water, hot water, radio, beds	1/mo.	varnishing, sail/mast rigging, head	2 years	Clipper is about right- 3-4 per dock. not busy, safe
42	laundry machines, shower/res troom		head, shower, stove, oven, refrigerator, hot water, television, radio, beds	Only for living, do not go out	bottom cleaning and zincs, leaks, bumpers and chaffing lines	Seldom, the boat is fiberglass	More, more friendly. More open. Less isolated than it already is.
